

FEB 23 1976

15th February,

Dear Ma'am,

I am afraid I don't know your name otherwise I would, of course, address you correctly. I wrote two letters in the Fall to Dr. Lederberg asking if I could see him in reference to the book I am writing on recombinant DNA and genetic engineering. Alas I did not get any reply.

I understand that Dr. Lederberg has recently written an article on this topic in Prisim. I would be most grateful if you could kindly let me have a copy of this. At the same time could you please tell me whether Dr. Lederberg expects to be in London or Europe between now and September and whether it would be possible for us to meet for a short time.

In case you wish to refer to my original letters they were sent from my office ~~in~~ The Dean's office, College of Human Medicine, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan. But I shall be in England for a while now so perhaps you could kindly reply to me at the address given below.

Yours truly,

June Goodfield (Dr.)
